WORDS OF APPRECIATION

Letter to Director

"the Agency has contributed significantly to the integrity of the Defense procurement process, and its professional advisory role is appreciated at the highest levels in the Department of Defense."

William P. Clements
Deputy Secretary of Defense

The Fourth Financial Management Conference

"The tangible and cumulative results of (DCAA) audit show that the Federal Government saved hundreds of millions of dollars"... "These savings also benefited the American Taxpayer."

Dwight A. Ink
Deputy Administrator
General Services Administration

Letter to Director

As for the TACT approach to contract audit, the DCAA should be commended for its foresight in the application of cost avoidance rather than cost disallowance audit procedures. That approach has obvious benefits to both parties to a contract.

I believe that the continued wise and consistent application of our existing procurement policy whereby the DCAA provides our purchasing and contract administration offices with professional advice and assistance will ultimately prove to be a modus operandi acceptable to all parties concerned.

. . . my staff is now working with your staff on procedures for joint Navy - DCAA contractor management reviews. I regard such cooperative efforts to be indispensable in our mutual objective of insuring the efficiency and effectiveness of Government contractors.

Admiral I. C. Kidd, Jr.
Chief of Naval Material
